A description or brief declaration of all the ancient monuments ... (1842). (Card 3.)
Four manuscripts have been used, two as forming the text, and two as affording various readings: 1. Ms. Cuth. a manuscript upon paper ... marked a. l. 11, in the episcopal library of Durham founded by Bishop Cuthbert ... 2. A manuscript roll ... belonging to Thomas Jefferson Hoag and John Hoag of Norton, in the county of Durham ... 3. Ms. Hoag, no. 43, upon paper ... 4. Ms. Hoag, no. 44, tract 10, upon paper ... Pref.
A considerable portion of the record here presented was published in a centralized and modernized shape by John Dyring in 1872 under the title: The ancient rites and monuments of the monastical & cathedral church of Durham. In 1758, Dr. Christopher Hunter made it the basis of a little volume which he published under the title: Durham, cathedral, &c. (Continued on next card.)

A description or brief declaration of all the ancient monuments ... (1842). (Card 3.)
It was before the dissolution of the monastery; containing an account of the rites, customs and ceremonies used therein. In 1742, Dr. Hunter professed to publish a second edition of the above book, but the title only was new: The history of the cathedral church of Durham as it was before the dissolution. In 1727, Hunter's edition was reprinted by a bookseller in Durham named Patrick Randsome with still further deviations from the original, under the title: The antiquities of the abbey or cathedral church of Durham. In 1868, the Bureau society published as v. 107 of its Publications a new edition of this 1842 version, with r. J. Hunter and more accurate text based upon the comparison of nine manuscripts, under the editorship of J. T. Fowler, with the title: History of Durham. of Prof. of this and 1868 ed. Desjardins, Ernest Émile Antoine, 1823-1886, ed.

La table de Peutinger ... 1869-74. (Card 3)
A road map of the Roman empire, founded on a Roman map (Orbis pictus) of M. Agrippa. Drawn probably in the 5th century, and copied on 12 leaves (11 of which have been preserved) about 1264, by a monk of Fulda. Konrad Meisner (or Cohen) found it in Worms, and left it to Desjardins in 1870, since which time it has been called by the latter's name. Some portions of it were published by M. Weiser, in 1864, after which the original was lost until 1714, when it was rediscovered, and placed in the Royal Library at Vienna.

After the 5th report of the 1st ser. ending 1907, there were no more full reports issued separately until the beginning of the new series. 1919/20, a separate publication containing two contributions (issued originally to form part of a 6th report) appeared, however, in 1911, under title: Herwig, H. Die statistik der deutschen schiffahrt während im Nordatlantik. Mit einem beilage von Dr. A. Kücken. Über die mathematische behandlung der deutschen statistik der schiffahrt. The results of the investigations of the commission were published during this period chiefly in Wissenschaftliche meeresforschungen and in Abhandlungen der Deutschen meeresforschenden kommission. Many contributions by German members were included also in the publications of the International Council for the study of the sea, at Copenhagen.

These papers ... are taken from a commonplace book compiled by Richard Broughton, man of business to Walter and Robert Devereux, earls of Essex.
